From the People

By RAYMOND FITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sensitives of the Republic

Washington, it seems, has been bearing again from varied groups of our population.

A large number of housewives have made formal protest against the rising rate of household expenses by reckless expansion of public funds.

A famous automobile manufacturer has discussed current problems at a White House luncheon.

Circle of men prominent in business and financial affairs have urged constructive action and cooperation in steps leading toward recovery.

A number of notable liberals have insisted on the right of every man to earn a living.

And from countless homes and offices throughout the nation have come letters pleading that Congress think in terms of increased production and employment, rather than political expediency.

Washington should heed such appeals. They come largely from the people themselves—when the men that voice our Constitution recognized as the source of all authority.

They reflect a growing national concern over a record of diminishing output of production, mounting bills of unemployment, increasing burdens of taxes and debt, and the continued substitution of a faith riddle for the steady plan which millions seek and justly construe the recovery map.

Minor theories and experiments, however hopefully submitted, have not replaced the money. But the quiet and the enterprise of the people themselves have solved similar problems in the past. And there is every reason to believe that it will solve them again.

Obviously the people have a right to demand that opportunity.

Republicans Make Gains

Republicans made great gains in the election Tuesday. The results are so sweeping that it is clear that the country, after six years, is now drawing away from New Deal policies. Republicans elected Governors, Senators and Representatives in many sections of the country. It is believed, according to political writers, that the vote was the result of the "people being tired of too much spending, of WPA scandals, of Democratic machine politics and other New Deal excesses."

Republicans Gain in St. Charles
In St. Charles county the Republicans gained county offices which had been lost four years ago. Borgell, R. defeated Hoffmann, D. for County Judge of the western district by 50 votes. Achelpohler, R. defeated Dalton, D. for Probate Judge by 1960 votes. Sutton, R. defeated Kerr, D. for Circuit Clerk by 43 votes. Dyer, R. defeated Wentker, D. for Prosecuting Attorney by 1443. Rickmers, R. defeated Buemann, D. for Public Administrator by 1777.

Republicans Win in Franklin
In Franklin county, which had been Democratic last term, the Republicans elected all but three of the county officers. Republicans elected are: Steinbeck, representative; Buchholz, presiding Judge; Farrar, assoc. Judge; Rohlfing, circuit clerk; Meyer, county clerk; Westharrow, recorder; Hakriede, pros. attorney; Werges, treasurer. The 3 Democrats elected are: Politte, probate Judge; Holtmeyer, associate Judge; Brightwell, collector.

The vote for proposed amendment No. 6 in Warren county carried at Marthasville, Dutrow, Truesdale and Lichte School House. A stronger campaign had been carried on for this amendment than any other of the nine.

A dog tax issue was also voted on in St. Charles county and was defeated 4818 to 3161.

Montgomery county went back into the Republican column in Tuesday's election.

SETTING UP IN BUSINESS
GENERAL STORE
BUSINESS

A GENERAL store gets started in business because some enterprising person sees the need for its services—and because he finds a way to fill this need.
So too, a young man sets himself up in farming—he sees the need for his products, and he saves or somehow raises the money that it takes to get started in business.
That's the way Missouri has been settled and has grown. That's also how Missouri's public utility companies, which provide the needed services of electricity, gas and water, got their start.
This public utility business had its pioneers, too—just as pioneer farmers opened up the land, just as pioneer merchants established trade, and other pioneers built railroads and industries which have provided employment for a growing population.
How were your utility companies "set up in business?" No one man could save up the money that it took to build the millions of dollars' worth of equipment that brings these utility services to you. It took, in actual fact, millions of people to start your utility companies in business—and to continue their growth so they can meet your ever increasing need for utility services.
Many thousands of Missouri families invested their savings. Practically all insurance companies and savings banks invested the reserve funds of their policy holders and depositors—thus Missourians who have an insurance policy or savings account have a stake in the public utility business.
It's an important fact that almost every Missouri family is a part of the public utility business—has helped to establish it—has an interest in its success. That is why your utility companies' aims are so clear to serve Missourians in their homes and at their work . . . to keep faith with the millions of Missourians who, through the direct or indirect investment of their own savings, have made these services possible.
